Parents and Children Communicating (PACC)

The Scottish Rite Clinic Staff invites you and your family to attend a 6 week parent education program that will result in the enhancement of your child's communication skills.

The PACC program is committed to helping families better understand how speech, language and hearing skills normally develop and what to expect from your child.

The staff wants to help you understand how disordered communication skills can affect your child and give you everyday suggestions to help your child develop these needed skills.

The staff will help you learn and use new strategies in your everyday routines to enhance your child's communication development.

The staff will act as a resource for your questions related to services in the community.
